

POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP

in Academic Libraries for Humanists

The Council on Library and Information Resources (CLIR) is pleased to announce the 2009 Postdoctoral Fellowship in Academic Libraries for Humanists.

This fellowship provides new scholars in the humanities a unique opportunity to develop expertise in the new forms of scholarly research and the information resources that support them, both traditional and digital, that are challenging research institutions. The program offers fellowships to individuals who believe that there are opportunities to develop meaningful linkages among disciplinary scholarship, libraries, archives, and evolving digital tools. Former fellows have high placement rates as researchers and professionals in academic libraries and as members of teaching faculties.

Fellowships will begin in Summer 2009 and range from one to two years in length. The fellowships will pay a salary plus benefits at one of the collaborating academic libraries, each of which will serve as a fellowship sponsor. Sponsors in previous years have included Johns Hopkins University, Lehigh University, Pepperdine University, Princeton University, University of California-Los Angeles, University of Virginia, and Yale University.

ELIGIBILITY

- Applicants must have earned their Ph.D.s in disciplines in the humanities within the past five years (or earn them before starting the program). All fields in the humanities will be considered.
- Fellows must be in residence at a sponsoring institution for the duration of the fellowship, and must be able to attend a mandatory seminar at Bryn Mawr College July 19–28, 2009.

DEADLINE

Applications must be submitted by December 30, 2008. Applicants will be notified of their status by April 30, 2009.
