POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP in Academic Libraries

The Council on Library and Information Resources (CLIR) is pleased to announce the Postdoctoral Fellowship in Academic Libraries.

This fellowship provides recent Ph.D. recipients a unique opportunity to develop expertise in the new forms of scholarly research and the information resources that support them, both traditional and digital, that are challenging research institutions. The program offers fellowships to individuals who believe that there are opportunities to develop meaningful linkages among disciplinary scholarship, libraries, archives, and evolving digital tools. Former fellows have high placement rates as researchers and professionals in academic libraries and as members of teaching faculties.

Fellowships will begin in summer 2012 and range from one to two years in length. The fellowships will pay a salary plus benefits at one of the collaborating academic libraries that serve as fellowship sponsors. Current sponsors include Bryn Mawr College, Bucknell University, Emory University, Johns Hopkins University, Lehigh University,

McMaster University, University of California Los Angeles, University of Michigan, University of North Texas, and University of Pennsylvania.

ELIGIBILITY

- Applicants must have earned their Ph.D.s within the past five years or earn them before starting the program.
- Fellows must be in residence at a sponsoring institution for the duration of the fellowship, and must be able to attend a mandatory seminar at Bryn Mawr College in late July 2012.

DEADLINE

Applications must be submitted by December 19, 2011.
